The

Yearbook for 1953

is presented to

The Students of
Salem High School
Salem, Ohio

by the

Quaker Annual Staff

Once again it is time to review the events of a crowded school year . . . . to put down in black and white the highlights of a year's activities . . . . to send forth a volume that will serve as a reminder to the students of Salem High of all the joys and sorrows, successes and disappointments that they have experienced from September to June . . . . to help preserve for the students one of the most precious years of their youth. In this book will be seen how the Freshmen adjusted themselves to a new environment . . . . how the Sophomores and Juniors took upon themselves the task of leadership . . . how they prepared themselves for the honor and responsibility of being Seniors . . . . how the Seniors, with a new, exciting, and awe-inspiring prestige, worked hard so that they would be ready for their Commencement of another new experience, making their places in the world.

Music is a universal language. It has the power to bind separated groups into a solid, compact whole. This is our goal—to bring together the many phases of high school life and mold them into a single unit, the Annual, by applying the magic of music. So . . . . . .

Mr. Thomas Crothers

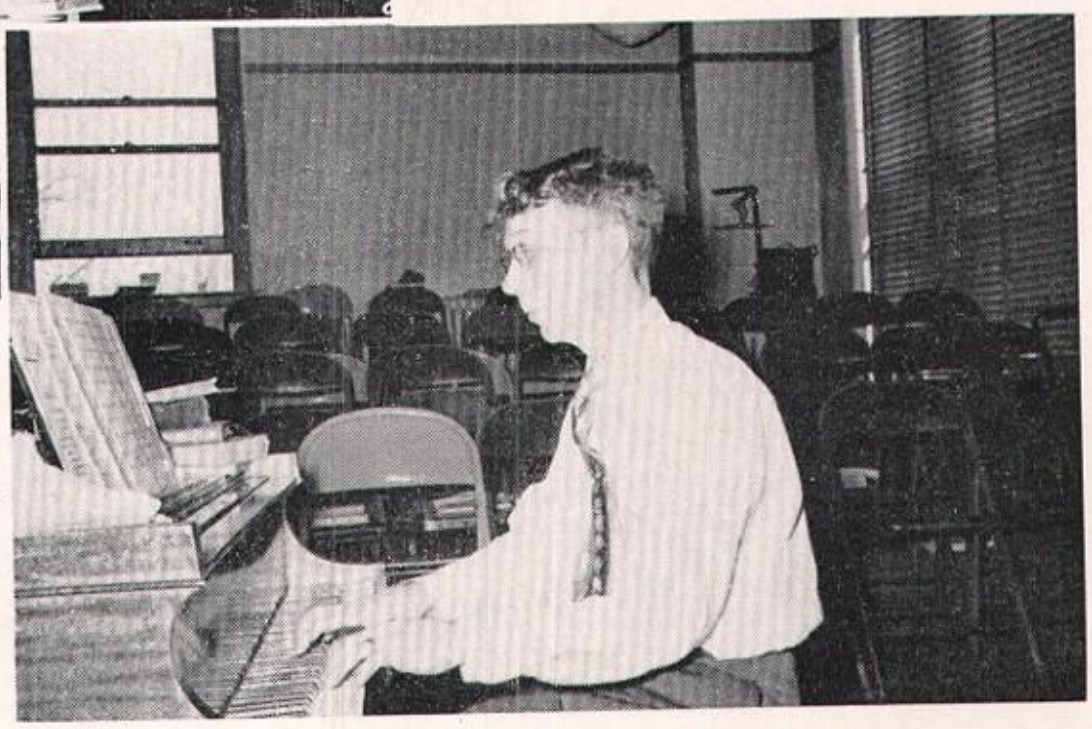
Choosing a dedicatee is one of the nicest tasks in editing an Annual. Because it is so important, one person cannot decide who should receive the honor! So the editors, business manager, and advisers meet together and make a unanimous choice.

The only specific qualification is that the teacher shall have taught four consecutive years in Salem High. We feel that he should also be a friend of the students, deserving of their respect, amiable, and accomplished in his own field.

With this in mind, the Quaker Annual staff proudly dedicates this yearbook to a teacher whose joyous personality and high standards of musicianship have inspired songs in the hearts of all of us . . . . . to Mr. Thomas Crothers.

'With A Song In My Heart'

Left—Mr. Crothers rehearses the tenors and basses.

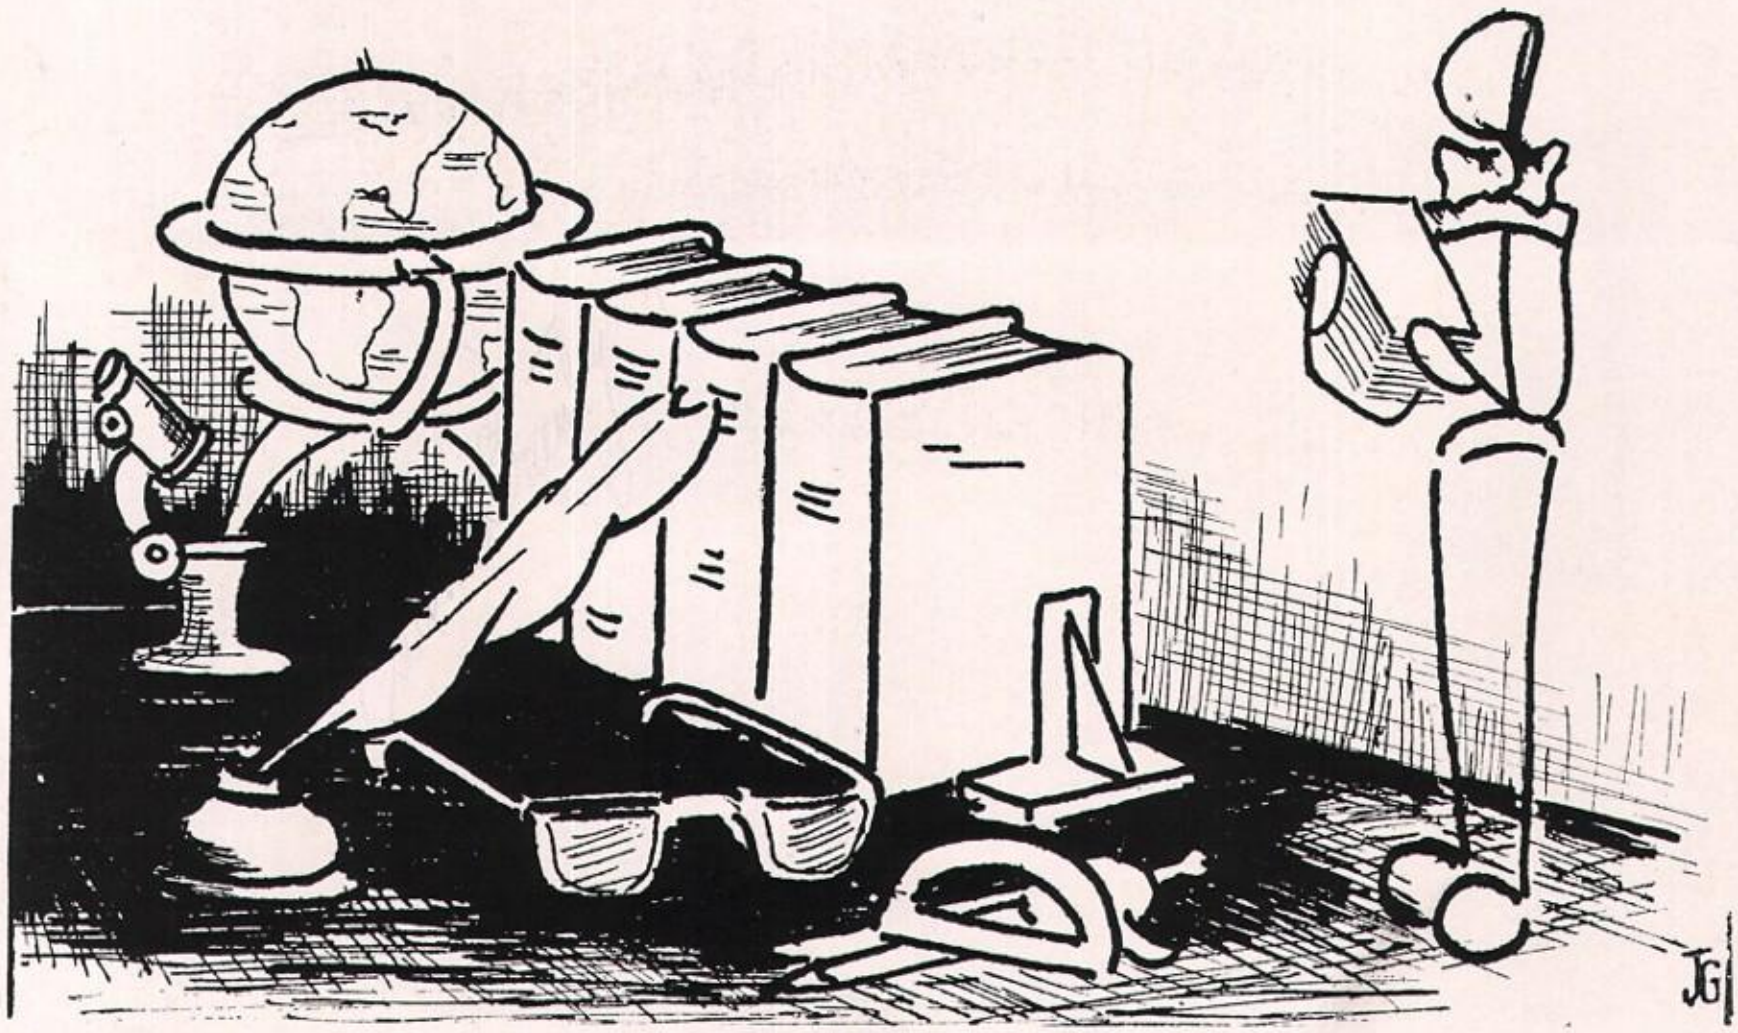


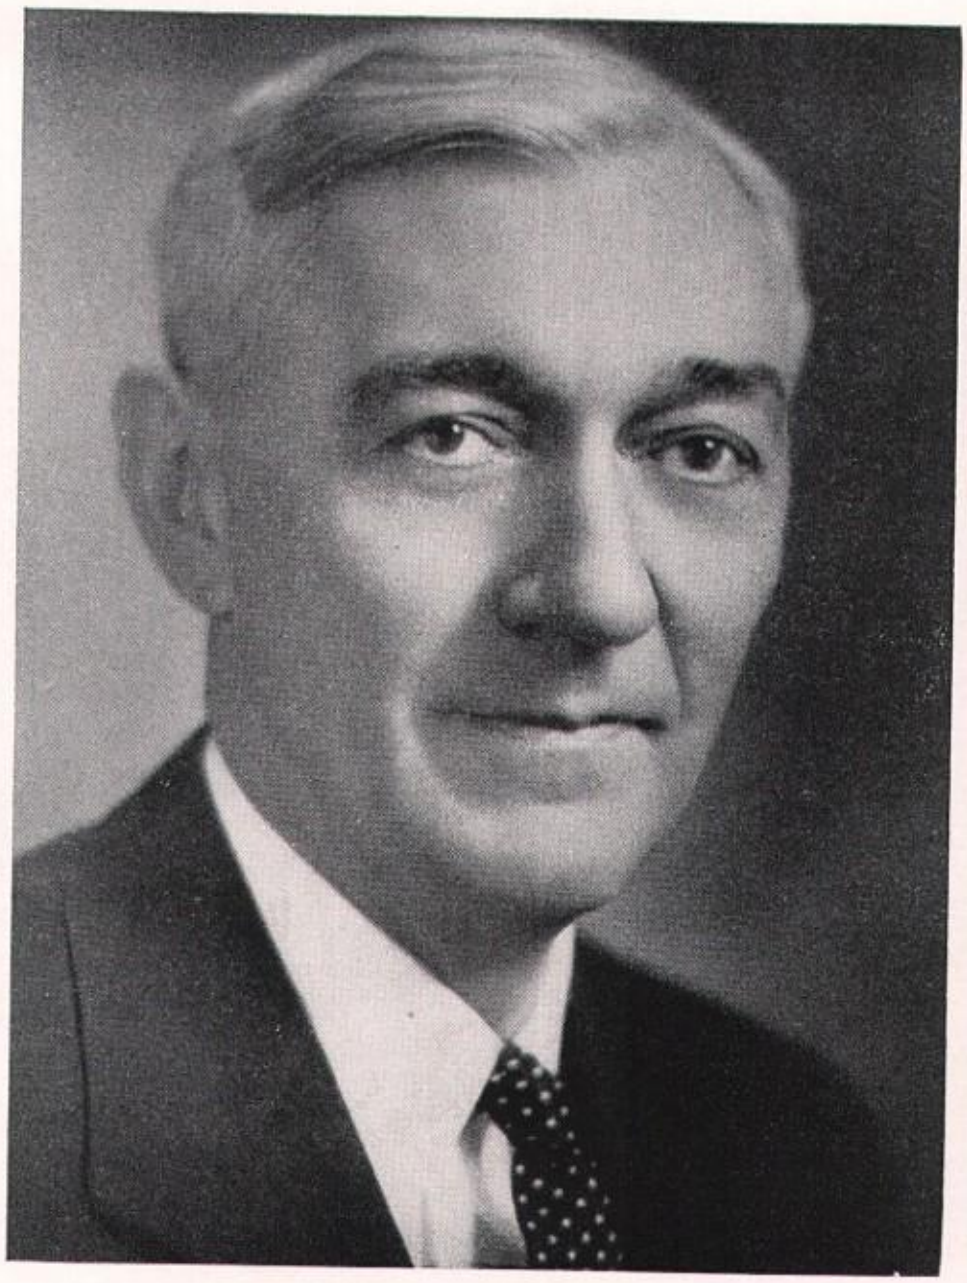
Right—Mr. Crothers plays through a new number.

Teachers . . . . assuming the responsibility of preparing boys and girls for the future . . . . giving personal attention and advice . . . . . knowing that they are molding the characters of the citizens of tomorrow.

Salem High School teachers . . . . friends as well as instructors . . . . sincerely wanting to help the students . . . . experts in their chosen fields.

'You've Got To Be Carefully Taught'





Mr. E. S. Kerr
Superintendent of Salem Schools

Salem schools are fortunate in having as their Board of Education a group of experienced and able men who have devoted many hours and much effort to promoting the welfare of the schools and setting up high standards of education.

Since we do not come in contact with this group and do not always hear about the innumerable problems they must solve, we do not fully realize what a fine job they do. Only a review of the curricula of our schools, the manner in which they are run, and the capability of their teachers can help us understand the efficiency of this board.

Serving as president and vice-president are E. S. Dawson and R. W. Campbell.

The chief executive of this group is the Superintendent of Salem schools, E. S. Kerr. Besides his endless schedule of supervising the schools he has the task of putting into effect the decisions of the board. Through his competent guidance the schools are smoothly run and the future will bring added improvements.

'Whose Duties Are

Beman G. Ludwig
Principal

To guide the staff and students of Salem High, to establish the routine necessary for the successful operation of a school, and to see that high standards of scholarship are constantly maintained are the duties of Principal Beman G. Ludwig. Although these tasks are endless, he can always find time to explain to an inquiring student the reasons behind the decisions that have been made.

Always helpful in counseling students are Miss Ala Zimmerman, Dean of Girls, and Mr. John Callahan, Dean of Boys.

Miss Zimmerman's understanding, sincerity, and warm personality have made her a friend of every girl. Assisting freshman girls in planning their schedules, senior girls in choosing a career, and helping all of them work out their own problems are a few of the many duties she quietly and efficiently performs.

Mr. Callahan has, likewise, made himself a good friend of all the boys for whom he is counselor. Aiding the boys in obtaining employment, giving advice on academic problems, and talking over personal problems keep him busy, along with his duties as adviser to the Student Council.

'Be Master Of All You Survey'

Green Freshmen, enlightened Sophomores, mature Juniors, sophisticated Seniors . . . occupying the desks, class rooms, and halls of SHS. Freshmen . . . entering with great ambitions . . . finding the path of learning a little steeper, a little harder, and a little longer . . . beginning to work with a new incentive. Sophomores . . . taking advantage of a year of memorable experiences . . . learning to take in their stride all the daily happenings, normal and otherwise . . . beginning to feel secure and comfortable. Juniors . . . half-way through . . . beginning to be recognized . . . experiencing the throb of anticipation . . . finding themselves caught up in the whirl of class play practices, initiations, nominations for Football Girl, class activities . . . knowing that next year will be it! Seniors . . . calm, self-assured . . . coming face to face with the problems of planning "after school days" . . . losing that calmness when they think of Commencement . . . becoming humble and hopeful that they can fulfill their ambitions and capably take their places in the community.

'Pomp And Circumstance'

The school year for 1952-1953 draws to a close and the time is near when another Senior class will walk through the portals of Salem High for the last time.

The time has passed when they are able to participate in football, basketball, track, band, orchestra, chorus, and the other high school activities. No longer are they members of the Spanish Club, Quaker Staff, Slide Rule Club, Varsity S, or Hi-Tri.

Only memories remain—memories of the hilarious production of the senior class play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay"; of the fun they had at the ball games; of the various assemblies they enjoyed; of the good times at the class parties; of the class meetings presided over by their popular adviser, Chester Brautigam; and of the glamorous Prom that the Juniors planned as one of the highlights of the past year.

And if in future years they may want to revive the memories of this wonderful time, they will find them all set to music in the pages of this book.

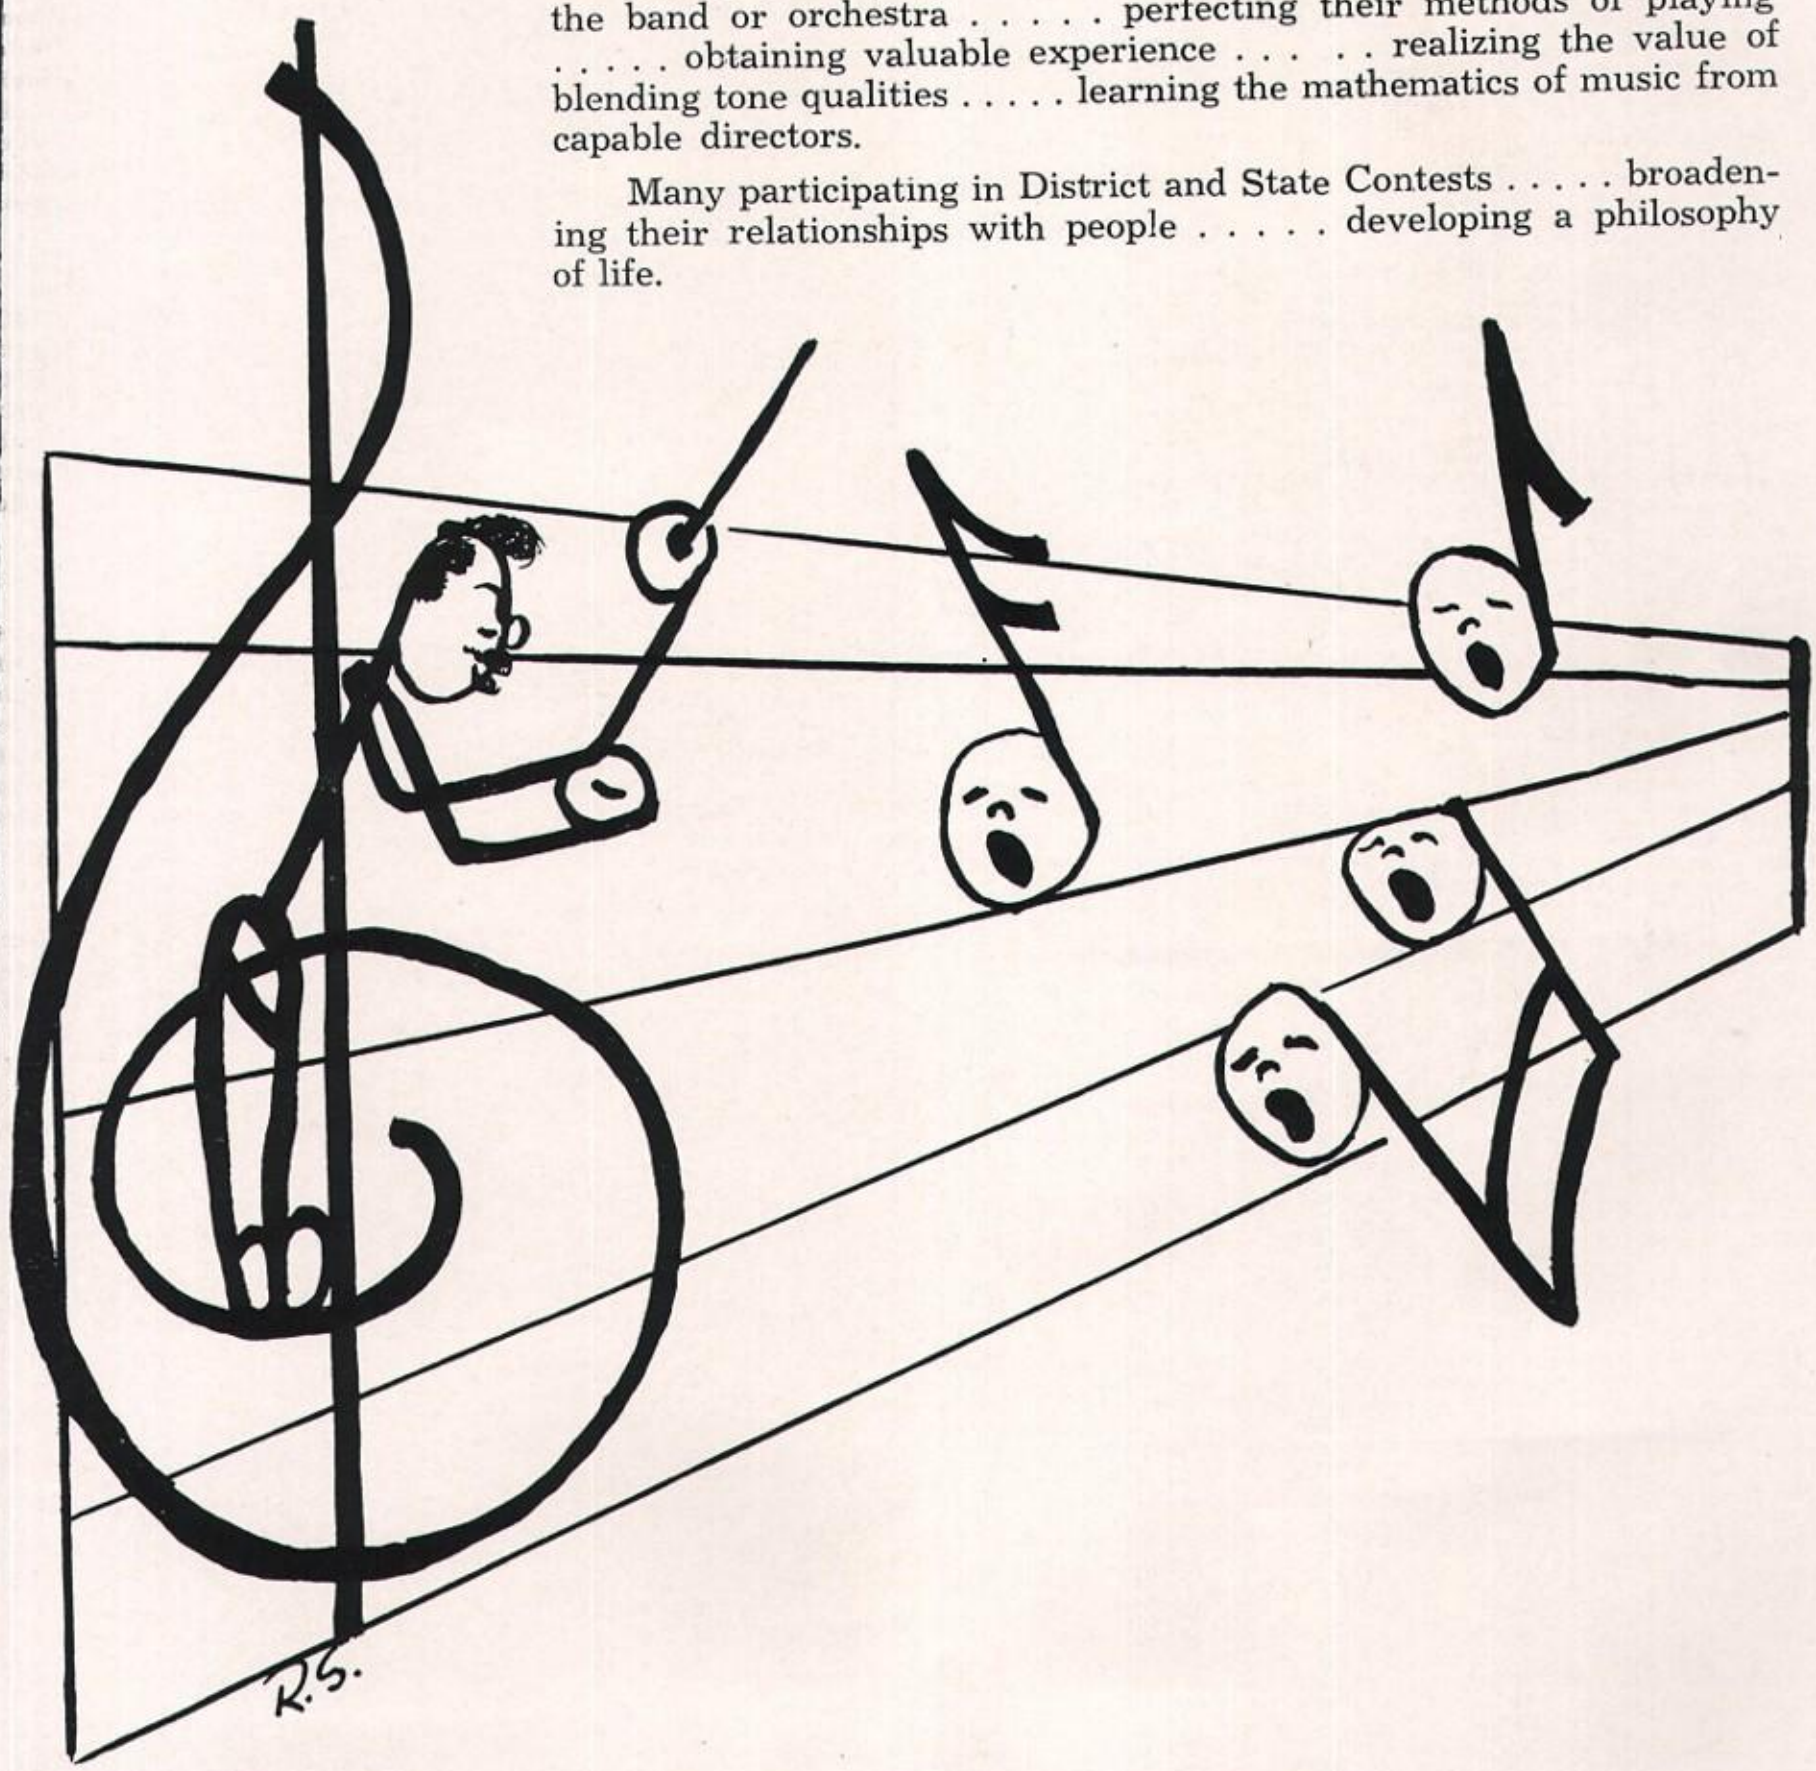
Music, Music, Music'

Room 302, the friendliest room in the high school . . . . . the workshop for the music enthusiasts of Salem High . . . . . linking boys and girls together by the chain of their common love for music.

Some students making their first acquaintance with vocal music . . . . . learning the fundamentals of group singing . . . . . enriching their own knowledge of music . . . . . studying new and harder techniques . . . . . singing more difficult harmonies . . . . . knowing the thrill of performing at civic functions . . . . . happy to be able to contribute to the culture of the community . . . . . appreciating the privilege of working under an accomplished director.

Others developing skill on an instrument . . . . . performing in the band or orchestra . . . . . perfecting their methods of playing . . . . . obtaining valuable experience . . . . . realizing the value of blending tone qualities . . . . . learning the mathematics of music from capable directors.

Many participating in District and State Contests . . . . . broadening their relationships with people . . . . . developing a philosophy of life.



BEAT LISBON

ow One—Lee Wisler, Rosemarie Faini, Pat Jurczak, Carl Siple, Jean Yarian, Joe Aiello, Gale Fair. Row Two—Bob Stallsmith, andra Scattergood, Lotus McCranie, Jean Kirby, Chuck Cobourn, Bob Domencetti, Gregory Benedict, Carol Wilde, Don Abe, aul Hannay.

'Plink, Plank, Plunk'

. . . could be heard as the orchestra, with an enrollment of eighteen members, worked under the baton of Richard Howenstine.

Every Thursday the orchestra devoted its time to theory. Here the students learned the scales: major, minor, melodic, and harmonic. They also were taught the different intervals, such as half steps, major and minor thirds, diminished fifths and augmented fourths. After acquiring this knowledge, the young musicians composed their own themes. All of this training bettered the muscianship of each member.

In spite of the handicap of a small enrollment the orchestra performed at both class plays. They did a commendable job in working out such numbers as "Belle Of The Ball," "The Falcons," "Copa Cabana," and the "Doll Dance."

Salem High's three choral groups have done a notable piece of work this year under their competent director, Mr. Thomas Crothers.

Advanced music, stress on intonation and diction, and the enthusiasm of the choristers have been the main assets of the groups this year.

A commendable performance was given at the annual Vesper Service, which was supplemented for the first time with a puppet portrayal of the favorite Christmas Carols.

The Robed Choir, constantly busy with a full schedule, had a larger enrollment than ever before with 109 members. Included on their list of activities was the pleasure of working with the Ohio State Symphonic Choir to learn new choral techniques and obtain criticism from their director, Mr. Louis Diercks. Combining with the Louisville and Alliance high school choruses for a concert given in Salem, and singing at Baccalaureate concluded the program for the year.

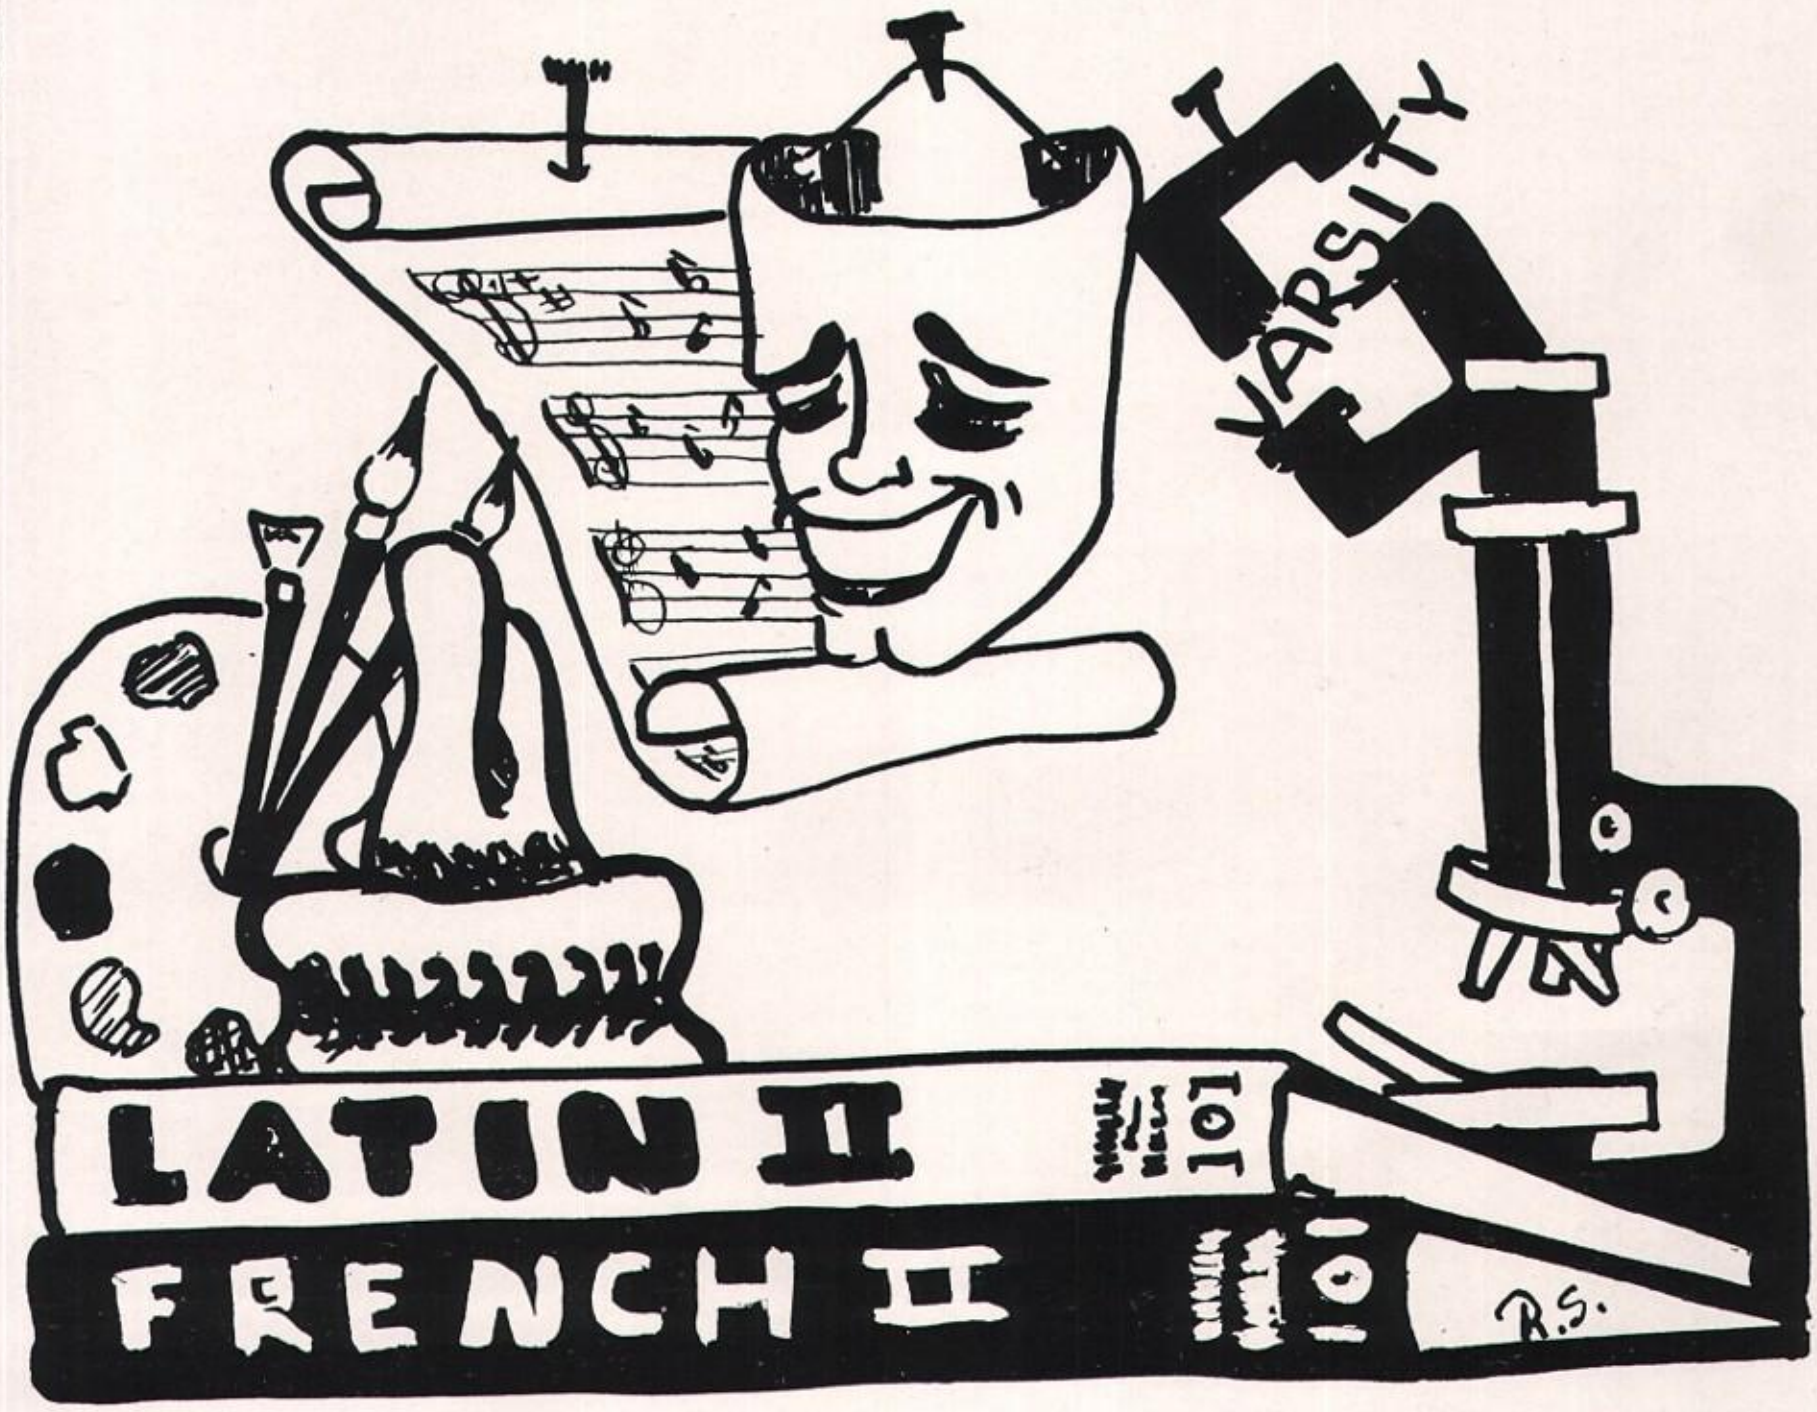
'Marching Along Together'

. . . in the activities that help to make high school life more enjoyable . . . by making a student more versatile . . . relieving the monotony of school work . . . developing character . . . molding life-long friendships . . . creating many happy memories. Memories of an invitation to join that special club . . . of being initiated, and at the same time consoled by the thought that next year it will be your turn . . . of feeling warm and good all over as you realize you are now a part of it all . . . of working hard, planning, worrying and relaxing together . . . of all the good times that were enjoyed . . . of that last meeting . . . of feeling strange as the older members walked out and you realized that you, so green just a year ago, were now the nucleus of the club . . . never forgetting . . . always happy in your memories . . . knowing that it was an important part of your development as an individual.



'Chasin' Around'

. . . is about all that the monitors, dean's aides, and nurse's aides get done as they perform the many duties that help to make the daily routine of the school function more smoothly. They serve their school, fellow students, and the faculty, and are chosen for their regular attendance, good scholastic standing, and character qualifications.

Some of the duties of the monitors are turning off hall lights during classes, collecting attendance slips, taking messages, running errands, and greeting visitors.

Dean's and nurse's aides help keep records, type schedule cards, and deliver messages.

In addition to serving their school, they are also gaining valuable experience as they get to know what goes on behind the scenes in the process of running a school, and they are more aware and more appreciative of our educational system.

Row One—Stokovic, Arkenburg, Dicu, Sweeney, Gallagher, Beery, Myers, Colananni. Row Two—Fife, Church, Bartholow, Hoopes, Whinnery, Fox, Hainan, Flitcraft.

'That Old Black Magic'

. . . was proven to be a lot of "hooey" by the chemistry aides who were organized last year by their adviser and chemistry teacher, Mr. Frank Tarr, for the purpose of giving advanced students added experience in this type of work, and of aiding newcomers in the field of chemistry.

Some of their duties are checking attendance and recording grades. However, their chief duty is seeing to it that chemistry students get off on the right track in their lab work. With the help of the aides the lab periods function more smoothly and at a faster pace, since many questions can be explained by the aides and problems solved by them without disturbing Mr. Tarr, who may be "deep" in a difficult explanation.

The boys and girls who serve as chemistry aides are proud of their work and of the fact that they have been of some assistance. Their success is indicative of the future accomplishments of this group.

One might think it almost impossible to teach such an intricate art as sewing to thirty girls at one time. But with the help of the clothing assistants, Miss Ala Zimmerman and Mrs. Jessie Lewis perform this task skillfully. The assistants are chosen each year by the sewing instructors on the basis of their academic standing and interest in sewing. The experience is especially beneficial to a girl who may wish to become a home economics teacher.

The duties of the aides are to help with the cutting, fitting, and the sewing on of the . . .

'Buttons And Bows'

. . . and assembling the garments.

As a climax to the year's work the aides plan the annual spring style show which is held just before school is out. The entire performance is narrated by the sewing assistants.

This is volunteer work and no scholastic credit is given to these girls.

With the help of the aides making a garment becomes an enjoyable and rewarding activity.

This group of students has proven to be an asset to the dramatics department. Boys and girls are chosen to be dramatics assistants from among students with a "B" average in dramatics the previous year.

Some of the many duties of this group are grading papers, checking notebooks, listing attendance, and helping Miss Weeks in conducting the classes.

It has been a custom of the assistants to produce a play of their own. This gives them a chance to put to good use that which they have learned and to combine a little fun with the work.

Even though no scholastic credit is given, the assistants consider their job rewarding and worth-while.

. . . might describe the work done by the Formaldeaides who seem to be so much at home in room 110. They were organized two years ago by their adviser, John Olloman.

To help increase the funds in their treasury the club sold candy in the lunch room and sponsored a basketball stand.

Some of their activities included a trip to Cleveland and a tour of the Salem Water Works. They also drew up a new constitution and planned an activity calendar for the 1952-53 year.

A new idea was carried out this year when the club sent Christmas cards to all the other clubs in Salem High.

The Salemasquers are a group of students who have earned at least one-half of a Thespian point. These are awarded for portrayal of a role in a class play or for service on any of the various backstage committees, such as wardrobe, make-up, lighting, or ushering.

The club was organized in 1928. It was Salem's only high school dramatic club until 1939 when it was discontinued and replaced by the Salem High Troupe 358 of the National Thespian Society. The club was then reorganized in 1948 for this purpose: To give experience in dramatics and an appreciation of the art to underclassmen. These factors, along with the guidance of their adviser, Miss Irene Weeks, help train them for Thespian work.

The group sponsored a basketball stand in the winter and spent the last part of the year casting and producing a one-act play.

The goal of every Salemasquer since the founding of the club has been to earn enough points to become a National Thespian.

Thespians of local Troupe 358 of the National Thespian Society furthered their knowledge of the presentation and production of plays through many activities during the year. Under the direction of Miss Irene Weeks, dramatics instructor, they presented the one-act plays, "Stoney's Bride," "Mama's Little Helper," and "Listen, Dad," to various groups in the community.

The membership of the group was more than doubled at the formal initiations, which featured candle-light ceremonies at which the new Thespians were welcomed.

The standard for membership in the local troupe is 12 points, or 120 hours spent in work on some phase of the dramatic arts.

In addition to participation in regular meetings, members assisted Miss Weeks in the production and direction of the class plays, journeyed to the Kent State Drama Clinic, and viewed outstanding presentations in Youngstown and Cleveland.

One of its projects this year was to fill and send gift boxes abroad. Several letters of thanks were received from students in other lands who received these gifts. Another project was working at the Quota Club Fair to help raise money for the swimming pool fund.

Salem High School was enrolled 100% in the Junior Red Cross after a short membership drive.

This year's calendar of events for the Latin Club, known also as "Sodalitas Latina", included a formal initiation for its new members and a colorful Valentine party. Taking charge of a basketball stand to increase its treasury was also one of its projects.

During the year stress was laid on the study of the language and customs of the Romans of long ago. Stories of Italy and its beginnings proved to be interesting and educational.

The Latin Club, advised by Miss Helen Redinger, Latin instructor, is gaining in membership and offers an opportunity for interested students to increase their knowledge of life at the time of the Romans.

Although the German language has been taught in the school for a long time, until just this year there was no extra-curricular organization in which German students could further their knowledge of the subject. Die Lustige Gruppe was formed in the fall and is advised by Miss Irene Weeks.

The interest shown in this newly formed club proves that it is here to stay.

. . . is just what the members of the Art club did this year. They showed so much talent that Mr. Joseph Stadtlander, the adviser, arranged for some of their work to be exhibited. Duane Barton and Jim Fitzpatrick won awards for ink-drawings entered in the Scholastic Art Awards Contest and exhibited at Halle Brothers in Cleveland. The club also held a May Show at the Salem Public Library.

The members specialized not only in graphic arts, but also in sculpture, photography, and other arts and crafts.

Spring vacation took the members to the Cleveland Museum of Art. To finance this trip they sold candy in the lunchroom during the second semester.

'Whispering'

. . . might be considered the watchword of the librarians as they work in the Salem High School library.

In spite of the attraction of television, high school students still find time to read. The well stocked library of Salem High provides encouragement for this activity. It offers a wide variety of fiction, non-fiction, reference books, and career pamphlets.

Supervising the library are head-librarian, Miss Lois Lehman, and her assistant, Miss Helen Thorp. To help them in their varied activities student assistants have been chosen from among honor-roll pupils.

The duties of the student librarians include mending and checking out books, magazines, and pamphlets; checking mail; filing cards; and writing those little overdue notices that we all hate to get. These girls learn to be helpful to the student who doesn't know exactly what book he would like to read, making suggestions from fact to fiction.

The librarians consider it a privilege to work here and to be of service.

Words Without Music

. . . is the keynote of the Debate team as they showed much spirit and ability when they tied for third place in the Canton-McKinley Debate Tournament, won one-half their decisions in the District Meet, and showed good form in practice sessions with various area schools.

This season there were a varsity and a reserve squad. The experienced speakers composed the varsity, while the newcomers served as the reserves.

This year more interest than usual was shown in this educational group. Coach J. C. Guiler hopes that even more will be interested in debate next year, for it is a very beneficial extra-curricular activity.

Two years ago the Coin and Stamp Club was reorganized, after a lapse of one year, by Mr. J. O. Hagedorn, adviser, to encourage the trading and knowledge of United States and foreign stamps and coins.

Several members attend meetings of the local Coin and Stamp Club and some have traveled to Canton and Youngstown to attend programs presented by philatelists of those cities.

The only qualification necessary for membership in the club is a sincere interest in United States or foreign coins and stamps.

The Varsity S, an organization of lettermen which dates from the 1920's, was reactivated in 1934. This was done under the direction of Herbert Brown, at that time head basketball coach. The same rules and regulations are observed to this day, one of these being the earning of a varsity letter for eligibility.

All high school sports enthusiasts look forward to getting into the club. As soon as varsity letters are awarded, an initiation takes place. Eight new members were received into the organization during the 1952-53 school year.

The club also tries to promote interest in athletics among grade-school students by providing the trophy which is presented each year to the winning team in the Mickey McGuire League, composed of young hopefuls that look up to these . . .

'Promenade And Dos à Dos'

The G. A. A. had on the agenda this year bowling, baseball, volleyball, basketball, and ping pong.

Highlighting the year's activities were the square dances where each and everyone could lead with his left and put his best foot forward.

Excitement ran high as the teams competed to sell the most Christmas cards. The team captained by Vivian Vavrek was the winner and was honored at a party. Top saleslady this year was Jean Kirby.

Changes were made in the constitution to bring it up to date.

The officers, together with the team captains and committees, have directed the year's work under the competent supervision of the club adviser, Miss Edith Cope.

So once again the motto has been upheld: "G. A. A. — Greater Accomplishments Always."

After receiving their slide rules, the members of the Slide Rule Club, organized and advised by Miss Martha McCready, began to wonder whether they would ever be able to use the "rule" to their advantage.

But soon they were able to add, subtract, multiply, and divide, and after much concentration, they learned to find square roots and raise to powers. After observing and practicing the technique used on the "big rule" in room 201, these students put their knowledge to use and found a much appreciated short cut for their math homework, so now they have no excuse for saying . . .

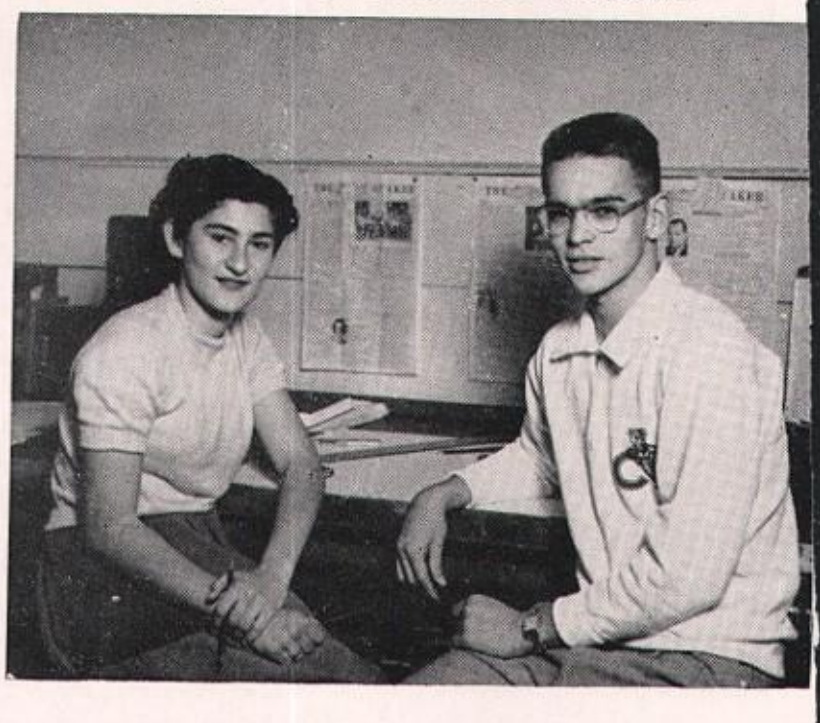
'Buy A Paper,

Junior Assistant Editor, Sandy Hansell and Senior Assistant Editor, Joan Schuller think the jokes in the Quaker Weekly are pretty good.

Weekly artists, Rosie Sulea and Jere Hochadel take time out to get a new slant from the editor.



A beehive of activity—this is the Quaker Office, headquarters of the Quaker publications. From this headquarters come news, rumor, tall tale, fact, fiction, tragedy, and happiness.

Comes Monday morning and the results of the labors of the weekly writers begin to come in, but it is on Tuesday and Wednesday that the news mill really starts to grind. The happenings of the high school are recorded in black and white, some articles are rewritten, others rejected, and after the final editing, the paper is made up. The jigsaw puzzle takes shape and is finally placed in the hands of the printer. At last it is unveiled to the student body on Friday afternoon.

This process goes on twenty-seven times in the school year, and the issues of the second term are sent to the N. S. P. A. where they are rated in comparison with high school papers from all over the nation. The writing is done, the mistakes have been printed side by side with the best articles, and the members of the staff wait anxiously for the final evaluation of their efforts, knowing they have learned something, have had fun, and hoping they have pleased the student body.

The work of the Annual staff begins early in the year when a dummy is made, pictures are taken, cropped, mounted, and sent to the engraver. When the proofs are received excitment in the Q. O. runs high. Are they clear enough? Can you recognize the faces? Will the students like them?

Many things must be done before the dummy is sent to the printer — colors must be chosen for the cover, the dedicatee selected, reams of copy written, rewritten, and proofread.

But the task is finally completed, the last comma added, the last name checked for spelling, the last instruction given to the printer.

Then the editor and staff relax, but not for long; for the big assembly is coming up when all the secrets are finally revealed, and, at long last, the Annual is offered to the students for their important stamp of approval.

Then all that the Annual Staff can say is, "We tried; we hope you like it."

Coach Vince Crawford's Freshman football squad completed its season with a record of three setbacks and one tie in four games.

However, the value of freshman football lies not so much in winning as in gaining experience, responding to coaching, and learning to work as a team. And that's exactly what the Frosh did. With expert coaching the boys became thoroughly acquainted with all the basic fundamentals of the game, thereby readying themselves for future service with the Varsity.

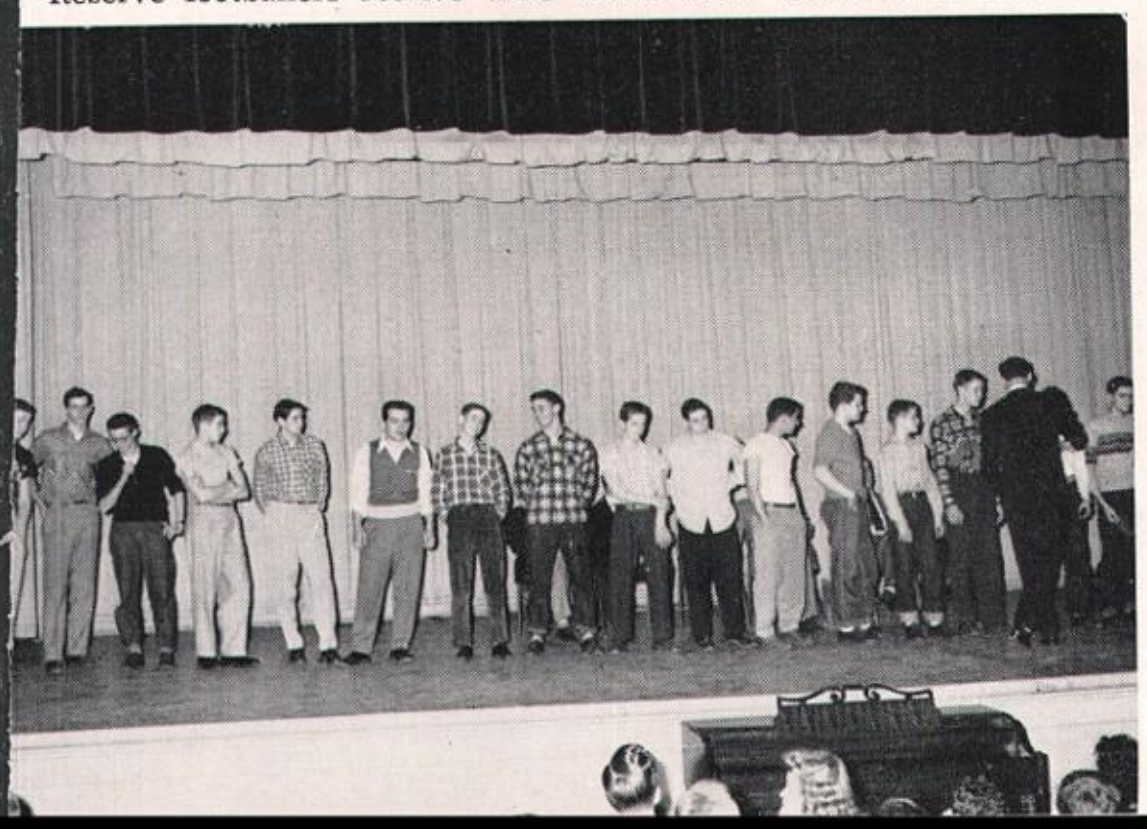
Reserve footballers receive their letters from Coach Sam Pridon.



For the first time in the history of football in SHS there was an active Reserve football squad. A regular docket of games was scheduled by Faculty Manager Fred Cope. The boys faced the Alliance Reserves twice, and the Goshen Union Reserves once.

The main purpose of establishing a Reserve squad was to give players who didn't see much Varsity action a chance to play in regularly scheduled games. It also gave younger players on the team more experience under actual game conditions. The group was coached by Sam Pridon, a member of the high school coaching staff.

. . . Of Old Salem High

In his tenth year as head Quaker gridiron coach Ben Barrett was faced with the task of molding a new line and grooming a quarterback.

The Quakers dropped their first three games before hitting their offensive peak by blasting Canton Timken, 40-20.

After splitting a pair of tilts the Red and Black hit another rough stretch, losing two more games, including a heartbreaker to powerful state-ranked East Liverpool, after the two high-pitched teams had fought evenly during the first half.

Newton Falls was defeated, and the locals ended the season in a blaze of glory by edging the Blue Devils of Lisbon in a thriller.

Doing an outstanding job as leaders of the team Co-Captains Don McCormick, rugged guard, and Nelson Mellinger, speedy halfback, inspired the rest of the team to greater efforts.

The Salem freshman basketball squad played a ten-game schedule, including return games with each opponent, during the '52-'53 season. Ken Jacobs coached the yearlings until he transferred to Columbus, when reserve mentor Karl Zellers took over as head freshman coach.

The "Little Quakers" lost two games to East Palestine, two to Sebring, and two to Columbiana and one to Goshen. Salem's three wins came against Alliance State Street and Goshen.

The freshmen had a season's record of three wins against seven setbacks. Matt Klein led the frosh, scoring 84 points, followed by Stanley Strojek with 55 markers. Three of the top freshman roundballers were on either the reserve or varsity squads, giving them experience which should be of value next year.

When We're Out To Win A Game

The Salem Reserves, coached by Karl Zellers, fared better than their brother Varsity members this year, winning 11 contests while dropping six. The Quaker understudies averaged 50 points a game while their opponents' average was 48. Sophomore Kenny Bosu led the reserve scoring with 203 markers, followed by freshman Richard Hunter with 156 points of the teams' 866 total markers.

These first six Reserves also dressed Varsity during the year: Larry Stoffer, Harry Baird, Dale Middeker, Jerry Myers, Richard Hunter, and Ken Bosu.

This is the first year that the reserve squad has been composed of only freshmen and sophomores.

Fighting exceedingly tough competition all season long the 1952-53 Quaker cagers, severely handicapped by a lack of height and experience, dropped 15 out of 19 contests.

With only Captain Eddie Votaw and Jack Gottschling returning Coach John Cabas decided to build for the following seasons, installing an all-out youth movement.

With a Varsity squad of seven underclassmen and only five Juniors and Seniors the Red and Black consistently displayed plenty of promise and potentiality. The "youngsters" were particularly impressive in the locals' 79-52 decision over Steubenville Central and in the lone Tournament setback.

The high spot of the season was when the youthful Cabasmen edged powerful Girard who eventually became District Champion. Billy Buckman combined with Votaw and Gottschling to pace the Quakers throughout the year.

TRACK

Sixty-six would-be thinclads answered Coach Frank Tarr's initial call last spring. Among these 66 boys were seven lettermen: five seniors, a junior, and a sophomore.

The local cindermen participated in three dual meets at Reilly stadium, losing to thinclads from Youngstown Rayen, Boardman, and Louisville. The Quakers were contestants also in the Columbiana County and the N. E. O. District Class A meets last season.

Absent from the local track scene last year were the Salem Night Relays which were abandoned by the Board of Education.

CROSS COUNTRY

The cross-country squad of Salem high school completed a successful season, according to Coach Ken Jacobs, although no team victories were won. The local harriers participated in meets with East Liverpool, Niles, Warren, and Leavittsburg.

The Quakers were paced in almost all their meets by Bill Lipp, a sophomore, who placed fourteenth in the District Meet held at Akron, only 28 seconds behind the winner. This was considered a praiseworthy accomplishment for a second-year student.

'Cheer, Cheer For Ol' Salem High'

. . . is the theme song of the cheerleaders, who, regardless of victory or defeat, are always behind the team with encouragement.

Each spring tryouts are held when a limited number of students are chosen to perform before the student body, for theirs is the final selection.

These five pepsters have worked hard and are constantly striving for that all important student support.

Combined with the memories of the long practice sessions are those of many thrilling moments, and the cheerleaders are proud that they have been able to help the team and cheer for the Red and Black.

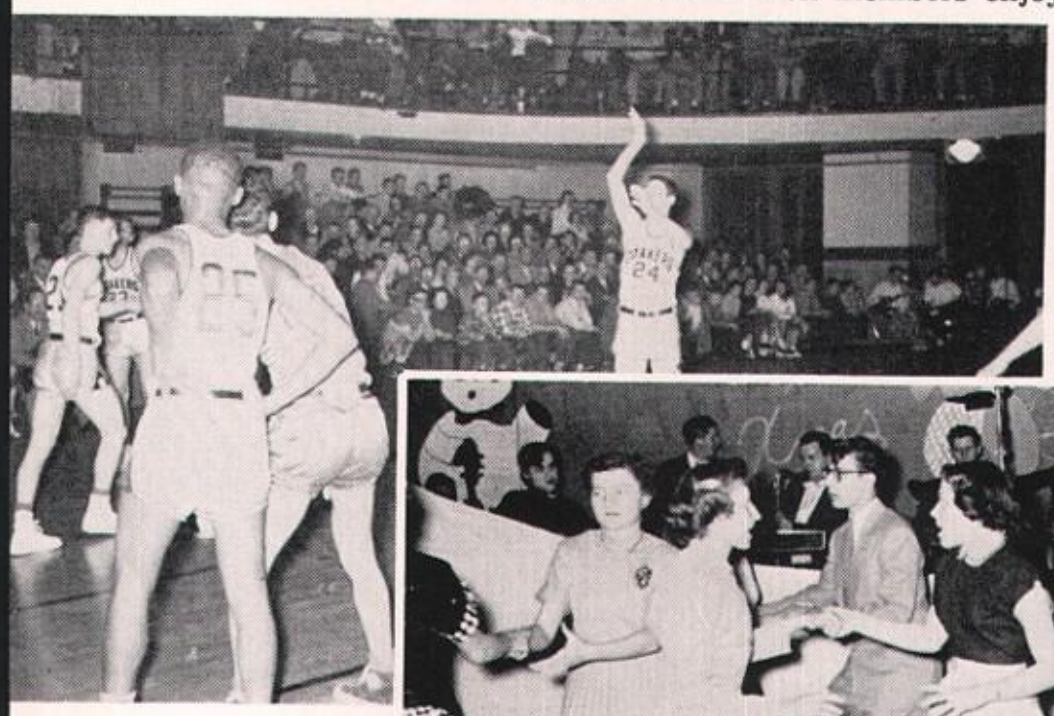
'Gonna Save Our Pennies

Below—Association members enjoy athletics, dances, and class plays.



The Association plan is one f the most appreciated items n the high school. Its biggest traction is the fact that it is a financial saving. With an asso- iation ticket that costs just six dollars students may attend all the football and basketball games, track meets, association assemblies, class plays, class parties, the association dance, and receive a Quaker Weekly and a Quaker Annual.

This plan has been copied by many schools. We are for- tunate to have such a system available to us.

Seated—Mr. Hilgendorf. Standing—Judy Tame, Secretary-treasurer; Jack Ference, President; Don McCormick, Vice-president.

Our tired old world needs strength and enthusiasm — the ideas and ideals of youth.

The Class of '53 will make an important contribution to the life of the community. It's up to each member to find the situation in which he or she can be most useful, and derive the most satisfaction.

Ever since 1846, Salem's Oldest Bank has had a very real interest in the young people of the area. We extend all good wishes to the graduates, and welcome every opportunity to help them to progress.
